Armed Men Hold Up Supermarket

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) —

Two armed men held up the Payless Supermarket here Wednesday night, took about $600 and then were captured by police after a brief gun battle.

A woman whom police say accompanied the men also was arrested. Police withheld identities of the trio.

Witnesses said the men came into the store while two policemen stood in a rear part of the store. When the men left, the policemen went out the back way of the store, saw the men and ordered them to halt.

A brief gun battle ensued, with several shots fired by each side, before the bandits surrendered. No one was injured. The money was recovered.

Hilda Eyed Closely, May Hit Coast

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Hurricane Hilda — her winds increased to 100 miles-an-hour — churned through the Gulf of Mexico early today with coastal Louisiana as her probable target.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau's early morning advisory said Hilda's eye was 370 miles south of New Orleans — or about 20 miles from the nearest land.

The hurricane continued to move to the northwest but the advisory said it would veer toward the north and increase in size and intensity.

It was still too far offshore for the Weather Bureau to hazard a guess as to when and where it might move inland.

Residents of low-lying coastal areas, remembering killer hurricanes of the past, scurried inland of high ground.

The latest advisory said Hilda had increased her punch from 90 to 100 m.p.h. Gales extended outward from the eye — the calm center of the storm which spawns violent winds in a counter-clockwise direction — 140 miles to the north and the east.

Red Cross and civil defense agencies mobilized quickly for Hilda. Evacuation centers were established in inland areas and began receiving residents of the low-lying sections.

Hilda was the first Gulf hurricane of the season and the fifth of the year. The others have churned through the Atlantic. Three tropical storms did not reach hurricane intensity.

The billion-dollar Louisiana offshore oil operations were shut down late Wednesday and crews and personnel were taken ashore.

Many residents of Cameron Parish, the coastal area in southwest Louisiana where more than 500 lives were lost in 1957 when Hurricane Audrey struck, moved inland.

Evacuation at Cameron was hampered by the loss of a pontoon bridge across the Inter-coastal Waterway. The bridge, knocked out by a towboat in August, has been temporarily replaced by a ferry.

Authorities were attempting to borrow a pontoon bridge from the Army at Ft. Polk, La.

At Grande Isle, directly south of New Orleans on the Gulf, Mayor Mickey Harris said 80 per cent of the incorporated island's population of 3,500 had left.

It was near Grande Isle, that 822 perished in a hurricane exactly 71 years ago today.

Dock Workers Strike, T-H Act Invoked

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixty thousand longshoremen struck today in Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports from Maine to Texas.

A board of inquiry appointed by President Johnson under the national emergency clause of the Taft-Hartley labor law acted quickly to get a report on the situation in the President's hands before nightfall.

A return to work under a federal court injunction was expected by Monday or earlier.

Shipping circles estimated a loss of more than $20 million in the nation's economy for each day the docks are idle.

Threatened loss of jobs through automation of cargo handling was a major factor in the "no contract no work" walkout by the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association which began a minute after midnight.

Some longshoremen jumped the gun in New York and began quitting work on the luxury liners as early as 5 p.m. Wednesday. Clerical employees were put to work handling passengers' luggage and three big ships — the British Queen Mary, the American Independence and the German Bremen — sailed during the night.

For the past few days shipping companies — especially in the vast port of New York — had advanced some sailing dates and rushed loading of passengers.

Committee to Hear Candidates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The two candidates for governor go before the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education Saturday seeking endorsement of the labor group.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus' campaign headquarters said Wednesday that he had recovered enough from a lingering cold to speak to the committee.

The governor was hospitalized last month with a respiratory infection. He stayed home this week because of the cold. Mrs. Faubus has been campaigning for him.

Republican Winthrop Rockefeller has been stumping parts of the state.

The committee's action, if any is taken, will be behind closed doors and will be announced later, a spokesman said.

Winners Can't Make Olympics

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Warden Lawrence Wilson of San Quentin Prison was gleeful this week over the knockouts of two of his inmates scored in matches with the Olympic alternate boxing team.

"Unfortunately," he added, "our winners can't make the trip to Tokyo."

Hope Junior Auxiliary reminds everyone that the spaghetti supper will be served Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. in the High School cafeteria. The meal includes spaghetti with meat or mushroom sauce, French bread, drink and dessert, all for $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. The proceeds college scholarship fund for a Hope student.

First Christian Church is planning Homecoming Day at the local church, Sunday, October 4. All members and friends of the church are invited. The opening exercises will be at 9:45 a.m. in the main sanctuary. After the morning worship at 10:50 o'clock, luncheon will be served in Fellowship Hall.

Miss Tena Louise Pilkinton, daughter of Judge and Mrs. James H. Pilkinton of Hope, has been selected to sing with the University of Arkansas. She also has been voted by Holcombe Hall as its representative to the social council of the Association of Women Students.

Tena is a Junior transfer from Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.

Tonight's Rodeo will have a grand entry for all children under 10 years of age who ride horses. Be there ready to ride at 7:45 p.m.

In recent ceremonies Distinguished Military Student badges were pinned on 14 seniors at Henderson State Teachers College. The group included Cadet Major Thomas C. Jones from Hope, son of Mrs. Kathryn Jones.

The Library Club at Laneburg has elected Sandra West, president. Lana Lambert, vice-president. Betty Baker, secretary-treasurer and Jo Ann Gormley as reporter.

Today is the last one to pay your taxes and purchase poll taxes without penalty. A check with the Sheriff's Office at 9 a.m. Thursday revealed that 7,300 poll taxes had been issued which is about average for the entire year. They expect to issue over 8,000 counting the rest of today and mail-ins. This should prove to be something of a record for the County.

Charles Gough reminds the First Little League football game Saturday night has been moved up to 6:45 and pairs the Gold and Red. At 8 o'clock the Blue and White teams meet.

Asks Sentence Be Reduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arnold E. Edens, a former Paragould securities broker now in prison, filed a motion in federal court here Wednesday asking that his longest sentence—16 years—be reduced to one year.

He is serving three terms at the same time on convictions of mail fraud, embezzlement and false pretense. The last two are state sentences.

Edens, 41, was convicted in 1962.

Five Fire Fighters Are Killed

BOSTON (AP) — Five fire fighters were killed early today when they were buried under tons of brick and mortar from a wall that collapsed as they fought a blaze in a vacant building.

The fire in what once was a four-story toy factory claimed the greatest number of Boston fire fighters since 1942 when six were killed.

Among today's dead was Pvt. John Clougherty, 31, son of acting Fire Chief John Clougherty, who was directing 200 fire fighters at the scene and saw the men killed.

"My God!" he exclaimed in disbelief. "I've lost my son!"

The others were Pvt. Frank Murphy, 44; Lt. John Geswell, 40; Lt. John McCorkle, 53; and Pvt. James B. Sheedy, 38.

A dozen other fire fighters and one civilian were taken to Boston City Hospital, some in serious condition.

Ailing Fire Chief William Terenzi, for whom the elder Clougherty was acting, appeared at the fire despite his illness. He said the behavior of the wall which collapsed was contrary to what normally would be expected.

A second wall collapsed 10 minutes after the fire fighters were killed, raining bricks on the men digging for their fallen colleagues.

The second wall partly buried a fire truck and an ambulance. It caused no serious injuries.

Woman Is Jailed for Burglary

A Negro woman listed as Freddie Mae Williams, 22, of St. Louis, is in Hempstead County jail today facing charges of burglary, disturbing the peace and resisting arrest.

The woman and a male companion were caught in the act of taking money at Eula's Grocery on South Main. While the male talked to the lone attendant the woman slipped in and took money from a purse. She was caught in the act by State Police Lt. J. H. Porterfield.

Lt. Porterfield arrested the woman, but not before a terrific struggle during which the man escaped. The woman was finally subdued and jailed by State and Local Police.

3 Held in Mississippi Bombings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three white men were arrested in Mississippi in connection with recent bombings of Negro homes near McComb, the Justice Department and Mississippi Gov. Paul Johnson said today.

The arrests were made by FBI agents, members of the State Highway Patrol and Pike County Sheriff R. R. Warren.

The three were charged under Mississippi law with illegal use of explosives, a crime that carries a possible death penalty.

They were identified by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Johnson as Ernest Frederick Zeek, 25, and Jimmy Prinston Wilson, 38, both of McComb; and Paul Dewey Wilson, 25, who moved from McComb to Jayess, Miss., Wednesday.

Officials said the break in the investigation came Wednesday, when federal and state agents saw Wilson moving guns and ammunition.

Paul Wilson is charged in two bombings. The first was at the home of the Rev. James Baker Sr., in Pike County on Sept. 9.

Faubus Develops a New Cold

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus went home to the Mansion early Monday to fight off a new cold he said is developing.

Faubus was released from a hospital here Thursday after a week's treatment for a respiratory ailment. He said the new cold was a result of the recent damp weather.

Faubus said he plans to resume campaigning Wednesday.

The FBI said Wilson allegedly hurled three sticks of dynamite at the Baker house.

All three men are charged in the second bombing, one that took place late in evening of Sept. 20 at the home of Aylene Quin on Summit Street in McComb.

Although there were people in each house at the time of the explosions, there were no injuries. The FBI said the dynamite thrown at the Baker house exploded about 20 feet away. Mrs. Baker and an aunt were in the house.

Mrs. Quin's two children, 9 and 4, were in her house with a baby sitter when a blast ripped off the front porch wrecked the front wall and broke all windows.

China's 15th Birthday Celebrated

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China celebrated its 15th birthday today with the defiant cry that "revolution is the locomotive of history." It apparently did not choose to mark the occasion by touching off an atom bomb.

Peking's Mayor Peng Chen sounded the revolutionary keynote, reiterating the tough policy which Moscow deplores, before thousands of Chinese and foreign dignitaries massed in the Square of Celestial Peace in the Chinese capital.

Though there had been lively speculation that the Chinese might cap the day's festivities with an announcement that they had fired their first nuclear device, neither Peng nor President Liu Shao-chi even mentioned the word nuclear in anniversary addresses.

The subject also was avoided in lengthy anniversary editorials in the official Peking People's Daily and the theoretical party journal Red Flag.

Japanese correspondents in Peking reported that informed Chinese sources said U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk's statement that Red China may explode a nuclear device soon was a "fabrication."

"No one," the Chinese sources said, "not even Chairman Mao Tse-tung or President Liu Shao-chi, knows when Communist China will explode a nuclear device."

"The oppressed peoples are bound to rise in revolution, the imperialists and all the reactionaries will inevitably perish and the world is sure to march forward," Mayor Peng shouted in the day's major speech before 500,000 paraders began moving through the square.

"This is the law of historical development, which no one can alter. The people of the whole world should unite and persevere in struggle; our prospects are infinitely bright."

Peng said "this will be a year of pretty good harvests in China's history."

He called on Communists everywhere to unite against "United States imperialism" which he said "is plundering not only the economically backward countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America but also the economically developed capitalist countries, its partners included."

Says Farmers Misinformed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Dabbs Sullivan Jr., Barry Goldwater's campaign manager for Arkansas, said Wednesday that Eastern Arkansas farmers are being misinformed by government employees about the senator's views on farm price supports.

"County agents and other government employees are telling them that Goldwater wants to cut out supports right away," Sullivan said. "He wants to get the government out of the farm business, but he won't eliminate supports until he can work out a sound program."

Sullivan said farmers like Goldwater but "they're afraid of his farm program" because of the misrepresentation.

LBJ Shows Big Gap in Precautions

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has just shown the huge gap in the very best precautions for guarding a president's life unless the chief executive decides to live and operate in seclusion.

The Warren Commission over the weekend, in its report on President John F. Kennedy's assassination, made a number of recommendations to give a president better protection from killers in the future.

The commission, recognizing the reality of politics and the many roles of a president in American life, admitted:

"Exposure of the president to public view through travel among the people of this country is a great and historic tradition of American life" but "the protection of the president... is an immensely difficult and complex task."

"It is unlikely that measures can be devised to eliminate entirely the multitude of diverse dangers that may arise, particularly when the president is traveling in this country or abroad."

"The protective task is further complicated by the reluctance of presidents to take security precautions which might interfere with the performance of their duties or their desire to have frequent and easy access to the people."

The commission went on to call for more cooperation among government investigative agencies in exchanging information about possible assassins, asked that murder of a president or vice president be made a federal crime, suggested a Cabinet committee be formed by Johnson as an overseer, and raised this question:

Should the Secret Service continue to be trusted with a president's safety or should this job be turned over to some other federal agency?

At once Johnson set up a panel of top-ranking government officials to examine the question raised by the commission about the Secret Service.

Then Monday, Johnson, guarded by Secret Service men, went to New England to campaign and quickly demonstrated how all the precautions and exchange of information for protection of a president can be rendered almost meaningless if a president himself chooses to take big chances.

Johnson took big ones. All through New England — Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, Maine — he moved through surging, shouting throngs of hundreds of thousands, with people injured in the crush along the streets.

As Johnson rolled along in cars and caravans, talking as he went, one woman had to be carried away in an ambulance and a Secret Service agent guarding the President had his coat ripped and was forced to tie his trousers with tape.

But, as the commission has acknowledged, a president "cannot and will not take the precautions of a dictator or a sovereign."

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, in testimony before the commission on this problem, had said:

"The degree of security that can be afforded the president of the United States is dependent to a considerable extent upon the degree of contact with the general public desired by the president."

"Absolute security is neither practical nor possible. An approach to complete security would require the president to operate in a sort of vacuum, isolated from the general public and behind impenetrable barriers. His travel would be in secret; his public appearances would be behind bullet-proof glass."

senger ships and freighters by hiring extra longshoremen in order to get the ships to sea before the strike deadline.

Joseph Curran, president of the 50,000-member AFL-CIO National Maritime Union, has promised support to the longshoremen. Members of Curran's union are seamen, engine room and steward department workers and other ship personnel below officer rank.

President Johnson invoked the Taft-Hartley Act late Wednesday for the first time since he entered the White House.

His action was expected to lead to speedy issuance of a court injunction ordering the longshoremen back to work for an 80-day cooling-off period. During this time, his board of inquiry would investigate, report to the President and conduct a union membership vote on the latest offer by management.

The Board was appointed by an executive order on the basis that the strike could imperil the nation's health and safety and affect the movement of food and other essential perishable products to heavily populated areas.

Oswald Very Much Like Wild Russian

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sergei Nechayev was the wildest of the wild Russian revolutionists of the 19th century. He was ruthless and he had a simple philosophy: assassination.

He was a liar. He used fictitious names. He was a killer. And he so badly wanted recognition as a hero, leader and martyr, all at the same time, that he cooked up fantasies about himself.

Lee Harvey Oswald was the same and did the same. Nechayev, like Oswald, had a bleak childhood. Both had half-baked intellects.

This is an example of how far out Nechayev was: when he escaped the czarist police and went to Switzerland, he represented himself as an agent of an organization which didn't exist.

Then, returning to Russia under an assumed name, he represented himself as a disciple of Sergei Nechayev who, he said, had died in a czarist prison, tortured to death for the revolution.

Lenin seems to have learned some lessons from Nechayev, if only in ruthlessness. Perhaps Oswald did, too, if he ever read Nechayev's life although at this moment it can't be said he ever heard of the nutty Russian.

The Warren Commission, which investigated Oswald's assassination of President John F. Kennedy, in the first of its many-volume report on the tragedy paid scant attention to the books Oswald read, books which may have influenced him.

It will give more details in some of the subsequent volumes, some or all of which may be released this month. It could never hope to list all the books he ever read, if only because he didn't keep records and was secretive.

And just because he was secretive, communicating little to anyone, it's doubtful the commission could ever hope to pinpoint many, if any, influences on Oswald from his reading. He probably didn't know himself.

There is no life of Nechayev listed among the books Oswald borrowed from the New Orleans library, when he lived in that city. There is no public record available on what books he read in Dallas.

He was quoted as saying he read about communism from the time he was 15 years old although when asked at 20 to name some of his Communist reading he could mention only one: "Das Kapital" by Karl Marx.

He could easily have read the Nechayev story, though, in a couple of paperback books: one, "To the Finland Station," by Edmund Wilson; and the other, "Apostles of Revolution," by Max Nomad.

He must have had assassination on his mind for some time before he shot the President, for on April 10, 1963, he tried to kill former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker with a rifle and a few days later went to New Orleans.

He stayed there until September, borrowing from the library while he was there a book on the assassination of Sen. Huey Long in 1935. Two months later he shot the President.

He also borrowed "Portrait of a President" by W. R. Manchester, which begins with Carl Sandburg's brooding thoughts on Lincoln's assassination, plus a book on the Chinese communist leader, Mao Tse-tung.

Since the Warren Commission ruled out the idea of conspiracy in the Kennedy assassination — and Oswald was a loner from childhood — it is a reasonable guess that his ideas must have stemmed far more from books than conversation.

But this speculation on what Oswald read, and what may have influenced him, is testimony to one thing, that try as it would, and it tried for 10 months to put the pieces together, the Warren Commission, at least in its first volume, was able to collect only tiny fragments of what Oswald said and thought.

This is why the seven-man commission could do no better than guess at Oswald's reason for killing the President. Perhaps in the years ahead more pieces will be added by people who at one time or another talked to him.

But as this happens, and time passes, myths will grow around the grubby little man who wanted to make a big noise in the world but gave up early and finally decided the only way he could do it was with a gun.

continued in operation. Virco filed suit Sept. 18 asking for an end to picketing and asking that the union be required to post a $50,000 non-violence bond.

The union filed countersuit Friday, asking an injunction against violence and other unlawful conduct by the firm.

Mobley rejected the company's requests to stop picketing and that the union be forced to post bond. He limited the number of strikers who could picket.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray Williams

Miss Bonnie Sue Lane and Kenneth Ray Williams were united in marriage at the First Pentecostal Church on Monday evening, August 31, at 8 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. B. W. Lane, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Williams, all of Hope.

The Rev. Fred Eugene Portman of Carthage, Texas, officiated at the candlelight ceremony before a beautiful background of floor baskets of tall-man gladiolus, greenery, and seven-branched candelabra. The couple knelt on a prie Dieu at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Candlelighters were Miss Kathy Portman of Carthage, Texas, niece of the bride, and Miss Lisa Williams, sister of the groom. Both wore apricot taffeta. Mrs. Louis Sutton, organist, played a program of pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Durwood Hammer of Port Arthur, Texas, who sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "Aloes."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of white peau de soie which was floor-length with long sleeves ending in lily points over the hands. The fitted bodice and full skirt were appliqued with a design of lace and iridescent sequins. A small headpiece decorated with seed pearls held in place the three-tiered veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Susan Grant was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Wilma Ruth Nix of Houston, Texas, and Misses Kathy Sundberg and Brenda Neal of Hope.

Undecided About Challenge

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Pope County Judge R. D. Howell said Wednesday that he had not decided whether to accept a challenge to debate the proposed voter registration amendment with Dr. H. D. Luck of Arkadelphia.

Luck, chairman of the Committee for Voter Registration which backs the proposal, issued the challenge Monday to Howell, president of the Arkansas.

They wore apricot taffeta sheath dresses with matching chiffon over-skirts and headpieces of the same color. They carried bouquets of bronze mums.

Dressed in a manner similar to the wedding couple little Miss Becky Sundberg and Fred Allen Portman led them to the altar and at the conclusion of the ceremony followed them to the door of departure.

Wayne Grant of Hope served as best man. Groomsmen were Joe Purvis, David Chism, and Larry Williams, all of Hope. Ushers were Thomas LaGrone of Hope and Joe Prisco of Prescott.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lane wore a beige dress of Chantilly lace with beige and mint green accessories. Mrs. Williams, mother of the groom, was attired in green with black accessories. Each had a bronze chrysanthemum corsage.

A reception followed in the dining room of the Diamond. Mrs. Thomas LaGrone and Mrs. Mike Seamans poured the punch from a crystal punch bowl. Mrs. Fred Portman of Carthage, Texas, served the wedding cake, which was decorated with apricot roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

For travel the bride chose a peach whip cream dress with honey beige accessories. She pinned a corsage of white rosebuds at her shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams are now making their home on Rte. 4, Hope.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding and reception were: the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Portman, Kathy and Fred Allen, Mrs. Etta LaGrone and Rosie, Carthage, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Travis Lane and Lois Marie, Marshall, Texas; Mrs. Thomas Pilgreen, Ferriday La.; the Rev. and Mrs. Laidlaw, Pleasant Hill La.; Miss Wilma Ruth Nix, Houston, Tex.; the Rev. and Mrs. Huss Shearer, Ruby Steward and Joan, Texarkana, Texas; James Foster, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Hammer, Port Arthur, Texas.

"DEAR ABBY"

SHE'S YOUNG AT HEART!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: What does a man do when he confirms his suspicions that his mother-in-law wants to be more than a mother-in-law to him, if you know what I mean?

My wife and I have been married (happily) for nine years, and have two children. I am 37, my wife is 34, and her mother is 56. She certainly doesn't look the type who would entertain the kind of ideas she has been trying to get across to me lately.

My father-in-law is a nice, easy-going, undersized yes-man. At family get-togethers, she sends him home early so she can ride home with my wife and me to drop the wife off and then drive our sitter home. Then the battle to get away from my mother-in-law is on! How do I get out of predicaments like this?

CHASED BUT CHASTE
Dear Chased: Tell Grandma that you are not a BIG BAD WOLF and if she doesn't behave herself you will be forced to skip the family get-togethers. And then her daughter will wonder why. That should do it. If it doesn't, you are the first 37-year-old man who can't run faster than a 56-year-old woman.

Dear Abby: A very good-looking girl who goes steady with my best buddy sent word to me through her girl friend that she would like to go out with me. To tell the truth, I think I could go for her, but I don't want to ask her out while she is my buddy's steady girl. I'm afraid if I give her enough encouragement, she'll break up with him and then what if, after a few dates with her, I decide I don't like her that much? How can this be worked? I have never had a steady girl and I don't think I want one.

UNDECIDED
Dear Undecided: This girl apparently has a roving eye. If she were the right kind of girl, she'd break off with her steady and be legitimately free to date others, because obviously that is what she wants to do. But don't give her any encouragement while she is going steady with somebody else.

Dear Abby: An uncle of mine bought our 14-year-old son an electric guitar for his birthday.

The county judges association meeting in Little Rock last week declined to endorse the proposal, Amendment 54.

Harvey has been taking piano lessons for two years, but since he got this guitar he seems to have lost all interest in the piano and he spends all his time fooling around with the guitar. We have a lot of money invested in piano lessons, but Harvey is begging us to let him give up the piano and take guitar. Should we let him? I could just slap that uncle! Why don't people consult parents before they buy kids presents and cause so much trouble?

HARVEY'S MOTHER
Dear Mother: Perhaps Harvey's interest in the guitar is only fleeting. Give him a little more time and see if the novelty wears off. If it doesn't and Harvey is sincere about his interest in the guitar, line him up with the best teacher you can find.

Confidential To "Baby"
At Chrysler's: Give him "Everything But Love, Baby."

Troubled: Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Stalin Reds Hold Control of All China

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) - Stalin said their insurrection had no prospects, told them to disarm and return to politics. But today, the stubborn men who scorned the old Bolshevik's orders celebrate the 15th anniversary of Red China.

Some are bent by age, but the Chinese leaders taking the salute of a half million of their fellow countrymen in Peking's Square of Heavenly Peace have lost none of the shrewdness or imagination which made them masters of China in 1949.

Then, as now, four men occupy the chief places of power. They are Communist Chairman Mao Tze-Tung, 70, the Chinese Stalin; President Liu Shao-Chi, 66, white-haired one-time labor organizer; Premier Chou En-lai, 66, China's most skillful diplomat; and Marshal Chu Teh, 78, chairman of the standing committee of the National People's Congress.

Since Oct. 1, 1949, they have: -Radically altered the way of life and thought of 700 million Chinese.

-Challenged the two mightiest nations on earth, the United States and Soviet Union.

-Split international Communism into hostile camps and reasserted Chinese influence in Europe for the first time since the Mongol conquests of the 13th Century.

-Extended their philosophy of revolution and violence to Africa, Asia and South America, and

-By threats, calculated show of force and diplomacy, achieved a dominant position in Asia based on a mixture of fear, respect and, in some cases, admiration.

No other ruling group in the world has survived the vicissitudes of war and politics for so long.

This foursome began the climb to power more than 40 years ago, thrown together by their belief in Marxism and a common antagonism to the Kuomintang's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Though they once again are confronted with internal dissension - party intellectuals who oppose Mao's doctrine of struggle and revolution - they appear to be as firmly in the saddle as ever. Only age and the National 4-H Club Week

Ten clubs, representing three hundred eight-seventy 4-H's, join in with other youths throughout the fifty states and Puerto Rico in observing National 4-H Club Week, September 26-October 3.

The aims of National 4-H Club Week in 1964 are to:

1. Help celebrate the Golden Anniversary of the Cooperative Extension Service and explain the integral place 4-H occupies in it.

2. Influence more young people to join or form 4-H Clubs.

3. Emphasize career exploration and the value of wise vocational choice.

4. Encourage capable, youth-minded men and women to become volunteer 4-H leaders.

5. Increase public understanding of 4-H aims and methods, and expand support for year-round activities.

6. Honor 4-H friends locally and nationally, express appreciation for their assistance.

H. D. Council Meeting Held

The Hempstead County Home Demonstration Council held its regular meeting Saturday, September 26 with eighteen members present, representing seven clubs.

A report of the State Home Demonstration Meeting held in Hot Springs was given by the seven delegates who attended.

A committee was appointed by the president to make plans for an achievement program to climax the year's work.

Loan Volume Makes Some Very Uneasy

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP) - The ads and commercials keep telling you how easy it is to borrow. But some of the managers of the nation's monetary and credit systems are getting uneasy about the chance that the mounting volume of loans and mortgages might run into a double play.

Specifically: Some bad risks are popping up because of overzealous lenders and overconfident borrowers.

This uneasiness among the monetary authorities is tied right now to far that the growing optimism about business in general could lead to overextension by both business men and consumers.

And these authorities are citing increasing mortgage foreclosures and some growth in volume of delinquent bills.

Monetary managers are by nature a cautious lot. And despite their fretting, Americans by and large have handled the swelling volume of personal debt with a minimum of individual disasters. The majority doubtless will continue along a fairly prudent course.

It's the fringe risks that the authorities are worried about - the ones now getting into trouble and the ones that could if businessmen and consumers grow overconfident because the current business upturn appears to them to be endless.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reports that foreclosures on home mortgages have been rising. The rate per 1,000 loans advanced was 1.38 in the three months ended June 30, compared with 1.24 a year earlier.

For a 12-month period this brought the rate to 5.24 per 1,000 with 4.76 for the 12 months ended June 30, 1963.

Chairman Joseph W. Barr of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., says that the increasing volume of mortgage credit outstanding and the easing of terms in many regions is cause enough for the hoisting of warning signals. He proposes that next year the Congress to keep new look at the entire credit situation.

The vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, C. Canby Balderston, says the quality of credit can be maintained at the present rate of lending if bankers and other financial institutions keep a sharp eye on it. But he also warns of the high potential for unsound extensions of credit to businessmen or consumers who overrate their future financial prospects.

He urged particular caution in helping individuals increase their home mortgages to raise money for household equipment or vacation travel.

Balderston points out another trend, the large growth in the debt of unincorporated businesses such as proprietorships and partnerships. He says that despite some rise in the bad debt losses from such loans, the trend so far is being kept in reasonable bounds. But he urges bankers to make sure of the financial health of businessmen seeking such loans.

So far the rise in the number of debt defaults isn't alarming. The monetary authorities are just sounding the note of caution to both lenders and borrowers not to get too far off base.

Columbia County was named for the Goddess of Liberty.

It's the fringe risks that the authorities are worried about - the ones now getting into trouble and the ones that could if businessmen and consumers grow overconfident because the current business upturn appears to them to be endless.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reports that foreclosures on home mortgages have been rising. The rate per 1,000 loans advanced was 1.38 in the three months ended June 30, compared with 1.24 a year earlier.

For a 12-month period this brought the rate to 5.24 per 1,000 with 4.76 for the 12 months ended June 30, 1963.

Chairman Joseph W. Barr of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., says that the increasing volume of mortgage credit outstanding and the easing of terms in many regions is cause enough for the hoisting of warning signals. He proposes that next year the Congress to keep new look at the entire credit situation.

The vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, C. Canby Balderston, says the quality of credit can be maintained at the present rate of lending if bankers and other financial institutions keep a sharp eye on it. But he also warns of the high potential for unsound extensions of credit to businessmen or consumers who overrate their future financial prospects.

He urged particular caution in helping individuals increase their home mortgages to raise money for household equipment or vacation travel.

Balderston points out another trend, the large growth in the debt of unincorporated businesses such as proprietorships and partnerships. He says that despite some rise in the bad debt losses from such loans, the trend so far is being kept in reasonable bounds. But he urges bankers to make sure of the financial health of businessmen seeking such loans.

So far the rise in the number of debt defaults isn't alarming. The monetary authorities are just sounding the note of caution to both lenders and borrowers not to get too far off base.

Sales Tax Take Over $73 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The state sales tax and the companion use tax brought $73,380,007 into Arkansas during the fiscal year ended June 30, the state Revenue Department reported Friday.

This was almost 66 million more than the tax produced in the previous year, and E. E. Clees, assistant Revenue commissioner, said the next annual figure on the tax should be even higher.

J. Orville Cheney, the commissioner now off the state payroll campaigning for Gov. Orval E. Faubus, said that as long as the tax keeps producing more money there can be no serious talk of going to 4 per cent.

The state sales tax is now 3 per cent. The use tax is levied on goods purchased elsewhere and brought into the state.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) - One of television's happiest hours of last season's back and judging from Wednesday night's show with its humor and spirit intact, "The Danny Kaye Show" on CBS has its ups and downs but when the enchanting Kaye is around, even the downs are worth watching.

The show, second of the new season's batch, was not one of the memorable ones. Perhaps it was partly because Phil Silvers, his guest star, is a brash, aggressive comic with a style that doesn't mix too well with Kaye's gentler, more whimsical approach. Partly, too, it started off badly with a messy sketch about a dog-tired man - Kaye with an intolerable neighbor.

Silvers - and nobody seemed to know how to wind it up.

Things picked up with a couple of songs by Barbara McNair, and a disinfected simulation of an old-time burlesque show. Kay's best moments were during his informal chat at the end.

This viewer was busy battling a virus last week when "The Cara Williams Show" had its CBS premiere, but the second installment Wednesday night suggested that it will be just another of those broadly comic husband-and-wife series.

The gimmick of the show is that she and her husband, played by Frank Aletter, are

Hope, Malvern to Battle for District Lead

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sportswriter

A much clearer shot at the 4AA crown will be the spoils belonging to the winner of tomorrow night's Hope-Malvern match in Hammons Stadium.

Only one other team, Warren, has been able to stay out of the defeated column. The Lumberjacks have a 1-0 record, the same as Hope's. Malvern is 2-0.

Led by quarterback Phil Clem, the Leopards have an impressive record thus far in the season. They were handed their only loss last Friday night by tough Little Rock Catholic of 3AA, but only after keeping the Rockets on the launching pad for forty-five minutes. A 41-yard run and then a successful conversion in the closing minutes bagged the game for Catholics.

The Leopards had rolled along merrily until last week, winning their first three games with little trouble.

In their opener they bombed Prescott 26-7 with Clem scoring two TD's himself.

On Sept. 11 Malvern completely dominated Magnolia to open 4AA play. The Leopards unleashed the terrible wrath of their famous defense and held the Panthers to forty-nine yards on the ground.

A week later the Crossett Eagles felt the brunt of the Leopard's defensive unit in a 14-7 Malvern victory. Again both Clem and the defense showed up as Malvern's strong suits.

Clem, a three-year letterman at quarterback, has the experience and the moves it takes to go about his job, in a business like manner. With better than average speed, he is also exceptionally quick. In addition, he is an excellent passer. He is leading score in the district.

Sharing some of the backfield duties with Clem is 153-pound halfback Steve Efrid. He has lots of speed and is considered a dangerous breakaway threat.

Both tackles 205-pound Jerry Petty and Phil Schlenker, 185, are strong on both offense and defense. Schlenker keeps his tackle position for both directions. Petty goes to end on defense. The other defensive end is punishing fullback Rab Wilson.

The Leopards use an Oklahoma 5-4 defense, which is particularly strong against a running game. None of their first four opponents has scored more than one touchdown against them. Only Prescott has scored against them with anything resembling a drive.

This year's Malvern defensive unit is practically the same as the one the Bobcats had to face last year. It was one of the strongest in 4AA. No one scored on them on the ground in the last seven games.

Head Coach Alan Howard has due respect for the abilities of the Leopards. "We expect to have to fight for our lives every time the ball is snapped."

The Big 12 Conference unbeaten face tough tests this week. Pine Bluff and Blytheville, with identical 3-0-1 records, meet at Pine Bluff and Texarkana, also 3-0-1, tangles with Little Rock Hall's aggressive Warriors in Little Rock.

Hall's only loss was a squeaker to Little Rock Catholic and the Warriors have mowed down everyone else with poise and precision.

The Razorbacks are coming off a great victory over Texarkana, Tex.—the first in 20 years. Pine Bluff is coming off a mighty triumph over Fort Smith Northside and Blytheville mobbed West Memphis last week.

The mental factors—the probabilities of which team will be "up" for its game and which team will be "down" for it—are maddening.

We slipped by with the right choice .714 per cent of the time last week. Don't count on similar success with this week's schedule. But here's how we see them.

Pine Bluff 20, Blytheville 7. A nice spot for an upset, but at long last, we're Zebra believers now.

Little Rock Hall 14, Texarkana 7. A hard won upset.

Cards Again Down Phils to Take Loop Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I'd rather play anytime than watch or listen," said Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'm more nervous now than I was on the field."

Boyer and the rest of the Cardinals had just trooped into the dressing room after their eighth consecutive victory, an 8-5 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies that gave the Redbirds a one-game National League lead over Cincinnati by the end of a long, long night.

Now the Cardinals huddled around a radio, their bodies hunched forward anxiously as they listened to the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game.

After the Reds and Pirates battled through 12 scoreless innings, Boyer called it quits, finished dressing and left. But other remained.

"I'm in no hurry to leave," said Dick Groat, still sitting in his sweating uniform.

It was a good thing.

Not until the 16th inning — 4 hours, 14 minutes and 18 men left on base later — did the Reds finally lose as Jerry May dropped a successful squeeze bunt down the third-base line that gave the Pirates a 1-0 victory.

The Cardinals now hold a one-game lead over the Reds with only three remaining.

And even cautious Johnny Keane, the St. Louis manager, had to admit:

"I like our position."

The three games the Cardinals have left are all against the New York Mets. The Reds meet Pittsburgh once more, then wind up with two games against the Phillies, who lost their 10th straight and fell 2½ back and almost out of contention.

Curt Simmons put the virtual finishing touches on the Phillies chances, winning the key game against his former teammates with ninth-inning relief help. Simmons, 16-2 against Philadelphia since he was released by the club in 1960, left the Phillies in a position where the best they can do is tie for the top spot.

"This is the biggest victory for me — from the Cardinals' standpoint," said Simmons, who was a member of the pennant-winning Phillies in 1950 but missed the World Series because he had to enter military service.

While the leaders were battling, San Francisco retained its mathematical chance at the title by edging Houston 2-1 in 11 innings. Milwaukee nipped the New York Mets 6-5 in 12 innings and John Purdin of the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the Chicago Cubs 2-0 on two hits in his first major league start.

The New York Yankees moved two steps closer to their fifth straight American League pennant by whipping Detroit 7-6 and 11-6. Baltimore split with Washington, winning 8-4 before losing 6-3. Cleveland blanked Boston twice, 5-0 and 3-0 and Minnesota belted Kansas City 6-1. Chicago and Los Angeles were not scheduled.

Simmons, bringing his record to 18-9, did not allow a hit until Richie Allen singled with two out in the seventh inning. By that time, the Cardinals had built an 8-0 lead, mostly against Jim (Perfect Game) Bunning.

Alex Johnson followed Allen's hit with a homer, the Phillies scored again in the eighth and finally chased Simmons in the ninth when Ron Taylor and Gordon Richardson put down the final Philadelphia rally.

Boyer, Groat and Curt Flood each collected three hits in the Cardinals' 14-hit attack while Tim McCarver hit a homer and joined with Bill White to share four runs batted in. McCarver homered following Groat's single in the second inning and the Cardinals never trailed.

At Cincinnati, the Pirates finally broke through in the marathon game after the Reds had stranded 18 base runners and failed to score for the 32nd straight inning.

Donn Clendenon got the Pirates started in the 16th with a double, the first extra-base hit of the game and only the fourth hit for Pittsburgh. Bill Mazeroski sacrifice Clendenon to third and he raced home with the decisive run as May beat out a bunt down the third base line.

The Pirates' Bob Veale and Cincinnati's Jim Maloney had outlasted through 11 scoreless healed.

But Broyles said Bill Gray will be available at quarterback if Marshall is still hampered by the injury that restricted his play in Arkansas' victories over Oklahoma State University and Tulsa.

Marshall has drawn most of the offensive attention this week and probably will start against Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Tex., Saturday afternoon.

The game will be televised regionally.

Yanks Sweep Pair, Magic Number Is 2

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The corkscrews are out and the champagne's on ice. Today could be the day for Phil Linz to toot his harmonica again and this time he can play Yankee Doodle Dandy.

The New York Yankees are on the threshold of their 25th American League Pennant today after a two-night doubleheader sweep against Detroit cut the magic number over the idle Chicago White Sox to two.

The scores were 7-4 and 11-8. Another sweep against the Tigers today would end it.

Linz, who was fined $200 for tooting his harmonica during a Yankee slump in August, has promised not to play again until the clinching party. The flogging was the low point of the Yankee season and the club seemed to jell immediately after it happened.

The double sweep against the Tigers climaxed a 22-5 September for the Bombers during which they left the White Sox and Baltimore Orioles behind and broke open what had been a tight pennant scramble.

Pete Ramos, who has been Manager Yogi Berra's bullpen stopper since coming to the Yankees from Cleveland Sept. 5, came on to finish the Tigers off in both ends of Wednesday's twinbill. Ramos has eight saves and once victory as a Yankee.

Roger Maris and Elston Howard each had three hits and three runs batted in the nightcap after homers by Mickey Mantle (No. 35) and Joe Pepitone (No. 28) had helped win the opener. Tom Tresh had a two-run homer in the second game.

Baltimore's dwindling hopes got another jolt when the Washington Senators whipped the Orioles 6-3 in the second game of a two-nighter. The Orioles won the opener 8-4 for rookie Wally Bunker's 19th victory.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland swept Boston 5-0 and 3-0 and Minnesota whipped Kansas City 6-1.

In the National League, St. Louis moved into first place handing Philadelphia its 10th straight loss 8-5. Cincinnati fell a length back losing a 1-0 thriller to Pittsburgh in 16 innings. San Francisco edged Houston 2-1 in 11. Los Angeles blanked Chicago 2-0 and Milwaukee nipped New York 6-5 in 12.

The Yankees, who have won 13 of their last 14, are 28-10 since the Linz incident.

The clinching, whether it comes today or later in the week, will mark the Yankees' 14th pennant in 16 years and the first under Berra.

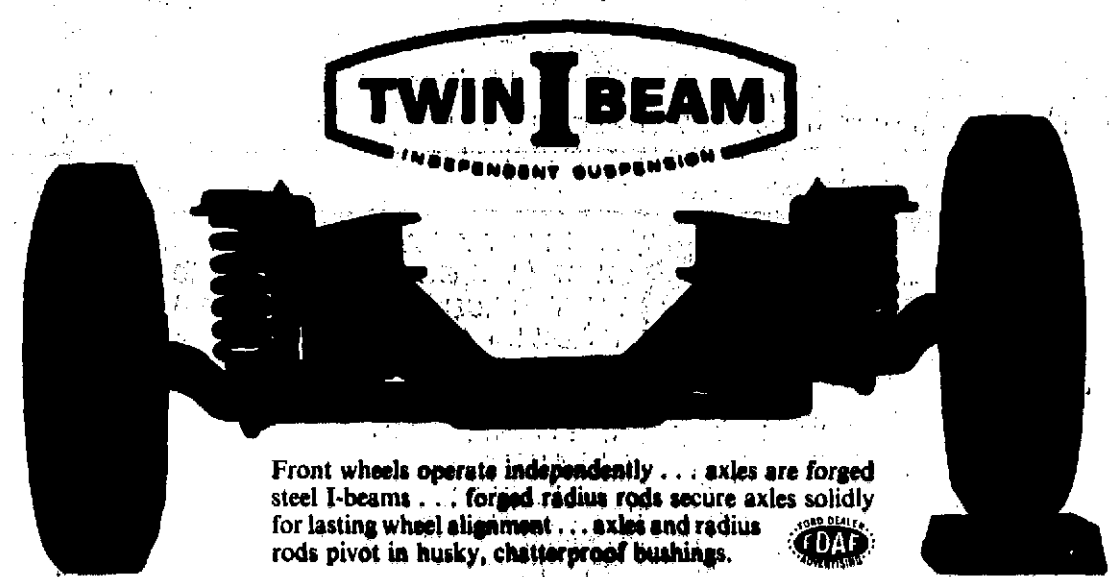

Baltimore has a much slimmer chance after splitting with Washington. The Orioles would have to sweep their last three games and have the Yankees drop five straight to gain a tie.

Jerry Adair poked two homers and Jackie Brandt had a two-run shot to back up Bunker's 19th victory in the opener. But the Orioles slipped against Claude Osteen, who got relief help from Steve Ridzik to win his 15th in the nightcap.

Boog Powell rocked Osteen with his 38th homer but the Orioles, now five back in the loss column, couldn't mount a sustained attack.

Selection of Rangerette Big Affair

By ROBERT M. JOHNSON JR., KILGORE, Tex. (AP) — It was a sultry September. There was no air conditioning in the Kilgore College gym and it was selection night for the Kilgore Rangerettes.

Kilgore is a little city in the east Texas piney woods. It is famous for two things — the Rangerettes and downtown oil derricks. Structurally, a Rangerette is much more interesting than a derrick.

The Rangerettes have performed at Rose Bowl, Cotton Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Memorial Bowl and Senior Bowl football games, at the All-Star Football Game in Chicago, at major league baseball games, in the Philadelphia Spring Music Festival, at the National Music Convention, and in the 1953 presidential inauguration parade — among other places.

So it was a big night in Kilgore when the ranks of the 1964-65 Rangerettes were filled and the officers chosen.

The sophomore Rangerettes — Kilgore is a junior college — chose 23 new Rangerettes and 12 alternates from among 80 freshman contestants, the survivors of 153 who started two weeks of preliminary training.

Gussie Nell Davis, the energetic 101-pound blonde who started the Rangerettes in 1940, quieted everybody with orders over a loudspeaker.

One by one, freshmen in their best dresses and high heels paraded the length of the gym floor, stopping in center court to present themselves to the audience.

They didn't march. They just walked. Everybody agreed Gussie Nell had really taught them how to walk.

The freshmen came mostly from Texas — but also from Oklahoma, Colorado, Virginia, South Carolina, Illinois, Florida and Connecticut.

Often girls enroll at Kilgore just because of the Rangerettes. And among those who fail to pass the stern scrutiny of the sophomores, there are always some who pack and go away to another college.

Those who pass and become Rangerettes begin a program of daily drills and strict discipline. A Rangerette is never permitted to miss a class unless she's sick in bed.

"And I never allow my girls to go to a party where liquor is served," said Gussie Nell.

"Being a Rangerette is drilled into you, and you never get over it," said Mrs. John T. Crim, Kilgore. As Jamie Love of Longview back in 1946, she was a Rangerette captain.

After each freshman had taken her walk through the gym, the girls changed to Rangerette practice suits — white short-skirts, white blouses, white tennis shoes. They performed the dancing and marching routines they had learned in just two weeks, the routines the Rangerettes will do late in red blouses, brief blue skirts and white cowboy hats and boots.

And now — who had passed the test? Who were the new Rangerettes?

The freshmen marched — were their smiles a little strained now? — out to the corridor where the sophomores had completed their judging and posted the names of the winners.

Shrieks of joy! Cries of lamentation! Winner clutched winner with squeals and tears.

Fgn. Policy Alignments Are Shifting

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Foreign policy alignments are shifting in this part of the world because of the quarrel between Malaysia and Indonesia.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's Indian government, usually reluctant to enter someone's arguments, has made strong statements of support for Malaysia.

Neighboring Pakistan, though avoiding a firm public stand, appears to be anxiously courting friends among the Indonesians.

Shastri made his first move by raising the Malaysian-Indonesian quarrel in a speech to Parliament.

Obviously referring to the landing of Indonesian paratroops in Malaysia, Shastri told the House: "It would be unfortunate if the sovereignty of Malaysia were disturbed by the use of force."

Later he said: "We want that the independence and sovereignty of Malaysia should be preserved."

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan was host to Indonesian President Sukarno — once a frequent visitor to India — who stopped off in Karachi en route to Europe.

Sukarno told newsmen that

$2.2 Million for School Lunches

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas schools will get $2,200,000 of national school lunch funds allotted to the states by the Department of Agriculture, an increase of $253,000, the Agricultural Marketing Service said today.

Each State receives school lunch funds on the basis of the number of USDA Type A lunchers served during the 1963-64 school year, adjusted by the state per capita income.

The service said the increase in Arkansas' allotment reflects the $9 million increase in national funds, which total nearly $130 million for the current year.

Hawaii and Moon Are Much Alike

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Beautiful Hawaii could appear to have nothing in common with the desolate bareness of the moon.

Yet there is a big similarity, say Manned Spacecraft Center scientists after a close study of the recent Ranger 7 photos.

Uel S. Clanton, space center geologist and one of a team of moon experts studying Ranger's remarkable pictures of the moon, said the photos reveal a string of shield volcanoes which are readily distinguishable by their low-angle, cone-shaped craters.

Hawaii is one of two places on earth with shield volcanoes, Clanton said. Greenland is the other.

For this reason, Clanton said geology field trips to Hawaii by the nation's 29 astronauts would be made soon.

Hawaii's famous Mauna Loa is a shield volcano, Clanton said. "The moon trainees' work would be to study the lava beds of the fiery crater so they would be familiar with the lava formations in case the same flows were found on the moon."

Clanton agrees with Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper of the University of Arizona and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's top analyst of the 4,316 Ranger photos.

Kuiper believes the lunar surface to be like "crunchy snow." He also says he believes formations in the photos to be lava flow beds.

Clanton said this is his theory too, although Ranger 7 pictures gave no solid basis for this theory or the one advanced by Dr. Thomas Gold of Cornell University, who said the moon was covered by a deep layer of dust.

Clanton said laboratory tests with dust in a vacuum chamber equal to the moon's pressure showed that the material "welded" together, much like a texture of crunchy snow.

"We are still studying the pictures," Clanton said, "but much of the moon looks volcanic in origin."

He said that heat, which is associated with volcanic activity on earth, does not have to be present in an environment such as the moon's to produce craters.

"A gas or liquid that came to the surface of the moon would expand and explode and that is a volcanic eruption," Clanton said. "There is no heat associated with the explosion."

To demonstrate, Clanton cited tests in vacuum chambers where liquids explode when depressurized.

The space geologist said he found evidence of an almost continuous battering of the lunar surface by meteoroids and micrometeoroids.

Ayub told him he wants the conflict with Malaysia resolved peacefully through an African-Asian conciliation commission. Ayub did not go that far in his talks with newsmen, saying merely it is too early to say anything about Pakistan mediation.

Despite these differences on what Ayub told Sukarno, the Pakistanis appeared sure they had made a friend.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said Sukarno expressed interest in Pakistan's formation of a so-called development group with Turkey and Iran. Indonesia is contemplating joining, Bhutto said.

Sukarno grated nerves in New Delhi by backing Pakistan's solution for determining the future of Kashmir, a Hindu state both India and Pakistan claim.

Many Indian officials also were shocked when the Indonesian navy renamed the Indian Ocean the Indonesian Ocean.

Ayub has said many times his country is threatened by massive India and will make friends where it can.

Bowling Enthusiasts

It has been estimated that 20 million bowlers in the U.S. spend about $350 million annually on their sport, 10 times more than the total major leagues' baseball gate receipts in a recent year.

Life in Arkansas

Walnut Ridge Mayor R. N. Stewart isn't taking any chances on alienating anybody before election time.

When Britain's famous Beatles stopped briefly at the airport in his city to change planes, Stewart said they weren't friendly and refused to come to the door of the plane and wave at their admirers.

This, Stewart said he had requested.

But he wouldn't comment further. "I'm running for re-election, and these kids might influence the votes of their parents," he said.

A sidelight to the Beatles stopover, reported by the Walnut Ridge Times Dispatch—a young girl took her shoes off and rubbed her feet in oil that had been spilled during servicing of the plane the quartet left on.

When Texas Congressman Wright Patman gave a reception at Hotel Grim in Texarkana last week, a prominent guest was the mother of "Hoss"—Dan Blocker, one of the Cartwright brothers in the television "Bonanza" series. The Blockers live west of Texarkana.

And the Texarkana Daily News reports the antics of a sympathetic band at a bruising football game:

When one particular bone-crushing tackle brought "oohs" and "aahs" from the fans, the band director tapped the podium and his musicians played six bars of slightly off-key, "Tenderly."

The Stuttgart Daily Leader got a check for payment for advertising a little late recently, but the explanation was satisfactory, it said. Attached to the check was an advisory slip with this notation stamped on it: "Sorry We're Late. D.D.D.D."

Cites Future of Great River Road

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton said Tuesday night the Great River Road along the Mississippi River someday will bring "millions of motorists" in to mid-America.

He praised the planned scenic route along both sides of the Mississippi as a channel for tourists from "Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, from the pines to the palms."

Dalton made the speech before the Mississippi Parkway Commission here.

The check came from one of the cities that hurricane had slammed across — Jacksonville, Fla.

Deposits in Hot Springs Fall Sharply

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Bank deposits in the Hot Springs area have fallen nearly $2.5 million since last March when gambling casinos closed, a Chamber of Commerce official said here Tuesday.

Haines Hower, director of public information of the resort city chamber, took issue when a churchman's claim that the chamber was providing selected information for the public so that the real view of the city's financial status would not be seen.

"Why does the group pushing gambling not mention the increase in bank deposits, in savings and loan deposits, in utility connections and in retail sales in many establishments since the gambling shutdown?" asked Dr. Ralph A. Phelps, president of the Churches United Against Gambling (CUAG).

"Dr. Phelps is in error if he said bank deposits are up since casinos were closed," Hower said. "The last two calls by the comptroller of the currency occurred April 15 and June 30, at which time both local banks reported their status.

"It was the first time since 1962 the banks failed to show an increase," Hower said.

Says Treasury Nothing But a Big Bank

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — "It's just a bank," says Arkansas Treasurer Nancy Hall. "It's just the state's big bank."

That's the way the gracious custodian of the state's cash describes her department. She is unopposed in her bid for a second term.

Mrs. Hall acknowledges that most people haven't the vaguest idea of what she does, or what the 24 people who help run the treasurer's office do.

"Even with all my years in state government," she said, "I didn't know much about the treasury before I came over here."

Mrs. Hall was assistant secretary of state, working for her late husband, C. G. (Crip) Hall, for 24 years until his death in 1961.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus appointed Mrs. Hall to fill out her husband's 13th term, to which he had just been inaugurated when he died.

But she was not eligible under law to succeed herself, so she ran for state treasurer—against a man—and carried all 75 counties in the 1962 Democratic primary.

Mrs. Hall says her most difficult job as treasurer has been administering 1963 legislative acts to use surplus money for construction, highways and added state services.

"It's a matter of daily balances," she said. "We don't know what money we're going to get in—federal and state—and we have to keep money on hand to take care of warrants when they come in."

"We keep daily balances just like they do in a bank."

The treasury pays warrants from the different departments of state government presented by banks which hold clearing accounts. The Little Rock banks clear checks from banks out in the state, then turn the warrants over to the treasury.

Mrs. Hall handles much of this work herself. "I handle checks, balances and withdrawals every day," she said. "I check the clearing accounts. My duties are to make deposits with them daily."

Mrs. Hall also handles a lot of her own correspondence. "I got used to it in my days as a secretary," she said.

She considers her job every difficult "because of the great deal of responsibility."

"You handle so many millions of dollars, you feel like you have to be very careful," she said.

Mrs. Hall is the first woman elected to constitutional office in Arkansas. She thinks a woman can run the treasury as well as or better than a man.

"Statistics have proved women can handle money better than men," she said. "I handled the finances in my own family. My husband turned them over to me." She said the men who work in her department do not resent working for a woman.

And she believes the office of state treasurer should remain elective rather than appointive. "This way the people have a choice of who is to serve them," she said.

Mrs. Hall does not particularly like making political speeches, but she does like to meet people. "I had charge of my husband's campaign headquarters all those years and I got to like working with people (politically)," she said. "I went to the campaign rallies before this summer's primary even though I didn't have opposition, just because I enjoyed it."

She says she gets along well with Faubus. "When I first knew him back under a former governor, I called him Orval," she said. "But after he became governor, out of respect for the office, I call him governor."

Her only child, a daughter, is married to R. Robert Bailey, son of former Gov. Carl E. Bailey. They have two children.

Mrs. Hall also is a member of the Board of Fiscal Control, the Employees Retirement Board, the Highway Retirement Board, the Teacher Retirement Board, and the state Board of Election

Thinks English Are Sneaky Selling Phrase Books to Americans Going to Holland

By BEM PRICE

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) — Frankly, I think the English are a sneaky lot. They sell phrase books to Americans going to Holland.

It seems the English have been friends with the Dutch since they established William and Mary on the throne and they don't want outsiders muddying up the waters.

There is one way to get in Dutch around here and that is to use this phrase book which was written for aristocratic Englishmen sometime around the turn of the century.

It really is a handy-dandy phrase book guaranteed to set U.S.-Dutch relations back to the time of Nieuw Amsterdam.

First off, you arrive at a port and announce — so the book advises — "Ik spreek geen Holland," which means "I do not speak Dutch."

That fact is quite obvious, of course, to the very first Dutchman you meet. But no matter, do it anyway.

Now, you arrive at customs. There are a host of useful phrases offered, all winding up with "We gaan zeker ons beklag indienen bij de Britse consul."

No matter what has happened, you are supposed to say, just as a matter of course, "We shall certainly complain to the British Consul."

So you are an American? Never mind, the British and Americans have signed a friendship pact though it may not last much longer at this rate.

When it comes to restaurants, this little handbook really shines. It tells you how to ask for a table near the window and, after you get it, how to say, "Deze tafel bevalt mij niet, of 'I do not like this table.'"

Once you are seated in the middle of the room "Geef mij helemáel geen vet" and "Kellner, nog een vork." The first phrase means, "Don't give me any fat" while the second demands another fork.

It has all sorts of words for ordering underdone pepper mustard to pheasants and "Amerikaanse biefstuk." That is, of course, rump steak off a cow, not a seter, with fried egg on top. It is quite good if you can manage to get it after all this.

After surviving this sort of British perfidy — if you do survive, naturally — it is most interesting to learn that nearly everyone in Holland speaks English anyway and they can understand American.

14 MOP Cars Are Derailed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Fourteen cars of a northbound Missouri Pacific freight train derailed 19 miles west of here Tuesday, ripping up 250 feet of track.

E. J. Drimmel, trainmaster, said the train was going 40-45 miles per hour. No injuries were reported, he said.

Only two of the cars were loaded, one with light bulbs and one with train wheels. All 14 were heavily damaged, he said.

Prankster Among the Democrats

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — There's a prankster among the Democrats.

A shipment of LBJ lapel pins from the state Democratic campaign headquarters to Young Democrats at Ouachita Baptist College contained 200 LBJ pins and one for Republican Barry Goldwater.

Poll Declares Gains for Republicans

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A poll by gubernatorial candidate Winthrop Rockefeller shows almost 70 per cent of the people believe Republicans have gained strength in Arkansas during the last year.

The Republican opponent of Gov. Orval E. Faubus released Tuesday results of the private poll he had made in mid-August.

It showed that there were as many voters who classified themselves as independent or Republican as Democrat and disclosed "an almost unanimous view" that the state should have a greater balance between Republicans and Democrats in political matters, Rockefeller said.

He said the poll showed that the public is concerned foremost with more jobs, new industries, improving the educational system and roads and highways. Lesser concern was shown over development of trade and vocational schools, welfare program, law enforcement and a merit system for state employees.

In industry, he said, "A significant majority of the people believe that I could attract more industry to the state if I were governor than could Orval Faubus."

The people overwhelmingly endorsed an effective state employee merit system removed from politics, Rockefeller said, and 80 per cent classified Arkansas roads as fair, poor or terrible.

He said he and Faubus were about even in the view of the people as to who could do the most for education.

"Two thirds of the voters believe that no governor should serve six terms or 12 years, but the majority said this would not prevent them voting against a man," Rockefeller said.

Other findings revealed by the candidate:

—About 70 per cent believe the welfare program has been used to exert political pressure and influence voters.

—Thirty per cent said they have known people who were afraid to vote the way they should.

—Twenty nine per cent believe Faubus' chief aides in government actually take leaves of absence to help in his campaign.

—A majority feel racial demonstrations will increase in the future "and half of them think Faubus could keep racial peace better."

—A majority think election irregularities occur occasionally or quite often, 25 per cent think they hardly ever occur. Two thirds or more believe election irregularities have changed the outcome of state elections.

—Seventy per cent believed there was much machine politics, 44 per cent said they be-

Meet in Darkness

By Stephen Romano

The Story: Hugo Sander apparently has disappeared. His wife Velma and his director Dick Craig are puzzled.

IV

Craig looked hard at her, wondering how capably she could cope with the emergency if "something" had happened to Sander. Velma Kirsten had been born of rich parents. Even as a minor actress, renamed Velma Christy, the lead in a series of horror movies of the mad-scientist type, her naturally regal bearing had caused the studio heads to kowtow to her. She was the kind of woman who would lift a cigarette to her lips and wait for men to come rushing across the room with their lighters.

"No police not yet. Then there's only one thing I can do — go out and hunt for him again, first all the way to the airport and back, then—"

"Dickie! Listen!"

She had heard the sounds of a car on the drive. It had approached from the north and it was stopping opposite the house. Impulsively, Velma started toward the door, but she halted, startled by a peculiar flat, smacking sound. Instantly the car began moving again, rapidly.

Craig hurried past Velma, out the entrance and down the driveway. The car was speeding, already disappearing around the curve of the drive toward Valencia Avenue. He could not see its outlines. It flashed darkly from sight, leaving him only halfsure that it had only one dim tail-light.

Craig turned back, still puzzled by that peculiar slapping noise. The light shining from the open door—Velma had come that far—showed him a flat square object lying on the grass at the edge of the driveway.

Sander's attache case!

Craig caught it up and carried it into the house. Velma followed him, pale and tense.

The can of film was there, lying on the same bed of business papers. Apparently nothing had been taken out. But something had been added—a single sheet of ordinary white paper bearing a printed message.

The printing was peculiarly even and unnatural, lacking in individual character, and the ink seemed calculated and ominous. He stared at Velma and found her round-eyed, frightened, trembling.

"They've kidnaped Hugo. They want a quarter of a million dollars." The sound of his own words shocked him into disbelief.

The telephone rang in the dark apartment. The young man lying on one of the twin beds in the next room did not respond. While the phone was still insistently calling, a girl came running up the iron stairway that angled outside the rear corner of the two-story building named the Bayway Villa. She tried to run quietly, but her loose sandals slap-slapped against the cement floor of the balcony with a wringing sharpness.

Her long, loose, raven-black hair was flying. She was small and lean. Her bare arms and legs flexed lithely. Under the dim overhead lights her red short-skirts and scanty matching halter exposed sunbrowned skin as dark as nutmeg. She bounded across the shadowy living room, fumbled for the phone and snatched it up. She hadn't been expecting a call; she didn't know who it was; she didn't care. She only wanted to choke off that deafening bell before it woke Bud. She pressed it between her breasts, against her thudding heart, while she stared into the dark bedroom where her husband lay insensate.

She had been in the utility room of the building, directly below, when she heard that frightening ringing begin. Instantly she had torn herself out of Stan's arms and fled. Now that she was back, now that she realized Bud was still mindlessly asleep, she felt ready to keel over with relief.

The phone was buzzing. She lifted it to her ear and said, still short of breath, "Who is it?"

"Dede, this is Dick. Let me talk to Bud."

"The little lug sacked out an hour ago."

"Dede, this is important. Get him up."

"Sure, that'll be easy. I'll get him up, then he'll fall right on his face."

"You've got to try, Dede. I can't say much over the phone, but Bud's needed here at Hugo's house as soon as he can make it."

"Head and all? He had six manhattens before dinner. You know he does this every single night."

She realized that Dick Craig was trying to hold in a roiling impatience. "It's about Hugo. He's missing. He's probably all right, but... we're not sure. I'm calling everybody—Bud, Allen, Sam—all of them together for a conference. It's nothing to fool around about, Dede. Start filling Bud full of black coffee."

In about 10 other cities, increased millage for school districts was rejected.

The biggest proposals were $1.5 million bond issues and the biggest tax increase proposed was 11 mills. All three passed.

Voters at Texarkana increased their tax 2 mills to 45 mills to increase teacher pay and make general improvements, and for a bond refunding program to provide $1.5 million to build a physical education and science building, a junior high school and cafeteria and an elementary school. The vote was 2,087-872.

Stuttgart district voters approved an 8-mill increase of 38 for a $1.5 million bond issue to finance construction of a new high school and additions to existing facilities. The vote was 1,083-1,018.

In the Technical District of Greene County, voters approved an increase of 11 mills to 46 mills to finance a $670,000 bond issue for the construction of a new elementary school, a cafeteria, library, classrooms and to improve existing facilities. The vote was 542-509.

The existing 43-mill tax at Russellville was approved again for a $1,029,000 bond issue for construction of a new elementary school, repairs and equipment. It passed 170-20.

A 7-mill increase of 47 mills was passed at Van Buren 791-188. It would finance construction of a $750,000 high school.

A $520,000 bond issue was passed at Prescott by a vote of 605-384 to finance construction of a new science building and for repairs.

Marianna voters okayed a 4-mill increase to 40 mills to finance a $500,000 expansion program, including a new elementary school, additional classrooms and more teachers. It passed 1,499-431.

A 5-mill increase of 45 mills was approved 825-117 at Ashdown to finance a $400,000 bond issue for the construction of a new elementary school at Ashdown and a gymnasium for the Negro high school.

Blytheville passed a $477,000 bond issue 344-9 to finance construction of a band building and a new wing to Blytheville High School, to add classrooms to an

State Full of Campaign Workers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Every time you turn around in Arkansas these days, you bump into a campaign worker.

That's because Arkansas has four (count 'em) full-time campaign organizations in the field. Normally at this time of an election year, even in presidential years, the election scene is quiet. The Democratic nominee for governor considers himself "in" and there is only sporadic activity in behalf of the presidential candidates.

This year the Republicans are conducting well-organized and well-financed campaigns for Barry Goldwater and "Winthrop Rockefeller. Gov. Orval E. Faubus is running a full-scale campaign. And a state campaign organization for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket is preparing to step into the fray.

The results has been a flood of literature, buttons, bumper stickers, back-slapping and speechmaking.

The Goldwater forces have 45 campaigns headquarters scattered over the state. Rockefeller has 40 and is planning to open more. Faubus' friends in the counties have opened 15 to 20 offices with more in prospect.

The Republicans and Democrats are approaching the campaign differently because of the different nature of the party structure in the state.

The Democrats have most of the county officials. In many counties the only organized party is Democratic. So Faubus and Jack Files, manager of the Democratic Campaign Headquarters, have keyed their approach to party leaders on the local level.

Rockefeller has from the start carried his campaign to the voters. His supporters are near the end of a statewide canvass of voters. Goldwater's forces are about to start one.

The Democrats plan to leave voter canvassing to local party organizations. Files hopes that his organization will have a headquarters in every county before the election.

The Faubus headquarters springing up about the state are independent of the main headquarters in Little Rock. J. Orville Cheney, an assistant manager of the Faubus campaign, says these headquarters are financed at the local level.

"We haven't even counted them," he said. "We have 15 or 20."

Cheney said the state headquarters will provide campaign material, information and directions, if asked.

Files' office, technically, was opened to help all Democratic candidates, but it will concentrate on the Johnson-Goldwater race.

Dabbs Sullivan Jr., chairman of the Arkansas for Goldwater Committee, said his organization hopes to contact every voter in the state before the election.

"We're finding out who's for Johnson, who's for Goldwater and who's uncommitted," he said. "We then work on the uncommitted. And the day before election we'll get in touch with the Goldwater supporters to make sure they go to the polls."

Sullivan said his organization has eight persons on salary with two of these being paid by the Goldwater headquarters in Washington and six paid with money raised locally. Sullivan estimated that there are 5,000 volunteer workers in the state.

Files said the Democratic state office has three salaried employees, all paid with local funds.

Bob Faulkner, manager of the Rockefeller headquarters in Little Rock, estimated that 80 persons are on the Rockefeller for Governor payroll. He said about 40 of these work out of the state headquarters and that there is only one person on salary in each of the local headquarters.

Cheney said Faubus has 12 paid employees on a headquarters staff of 20. Since the state office does not exercise direct control over the local offices, he said he does not know how many may be employed in the field.

The Goldwater and Rockefeller organizations are working independently of each other. Faulkner said Goldwater campaign material is available in each of the Rockefeller headquarters and "we co-operate whenever we can."

"Whenever we find someone who wants to work for Goldwater, we refer him to the Goldwater organization," Faulkner said.

Rockefeller's organization is operating out of the old Franke's Cafeteria building on Capitol Avenue here. Goldwater has a ground-level office in the Capitol Hotel on Markham. Faubus has the mezzanine of the Grady Manning Hotel and the Democratic state organization has some rooms in the Marjion Hotel.

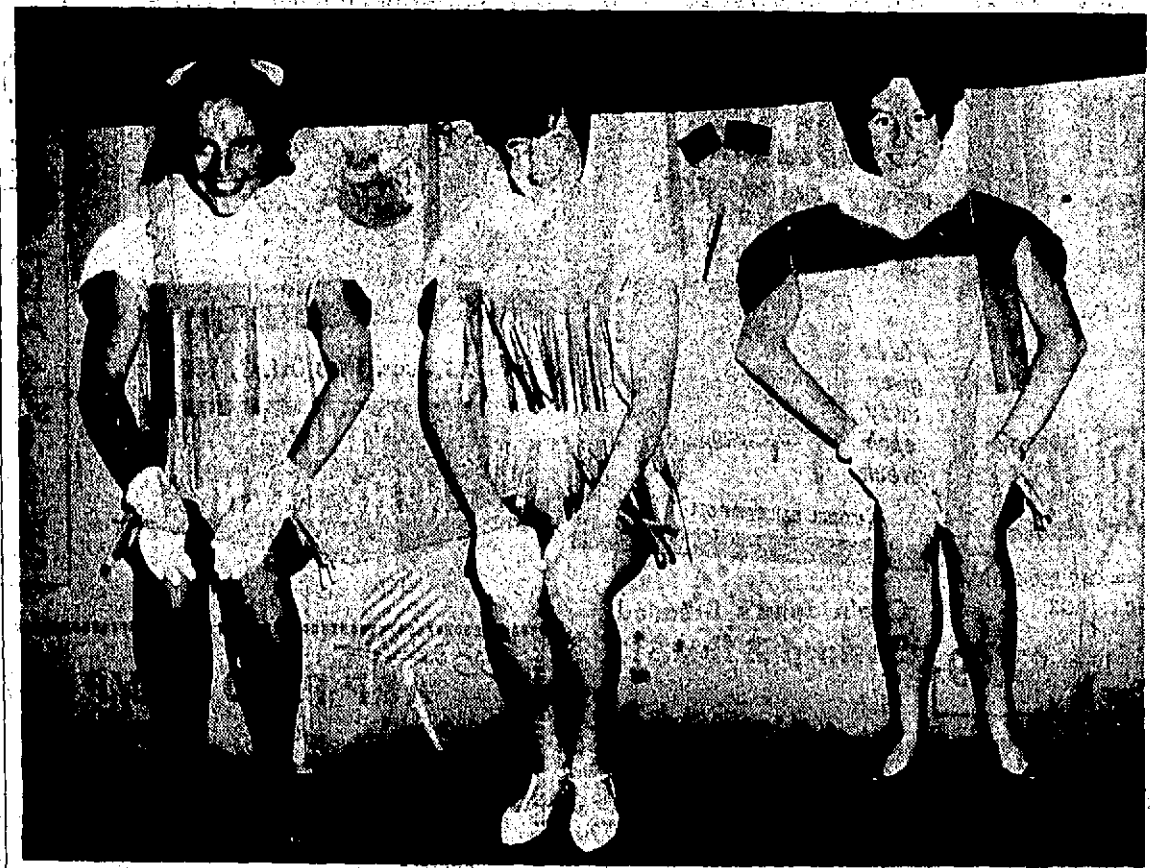

Cheney, who has worked in every Faubus campaign since the first one in 1954, said this is

Winners in the Club Talent Contest

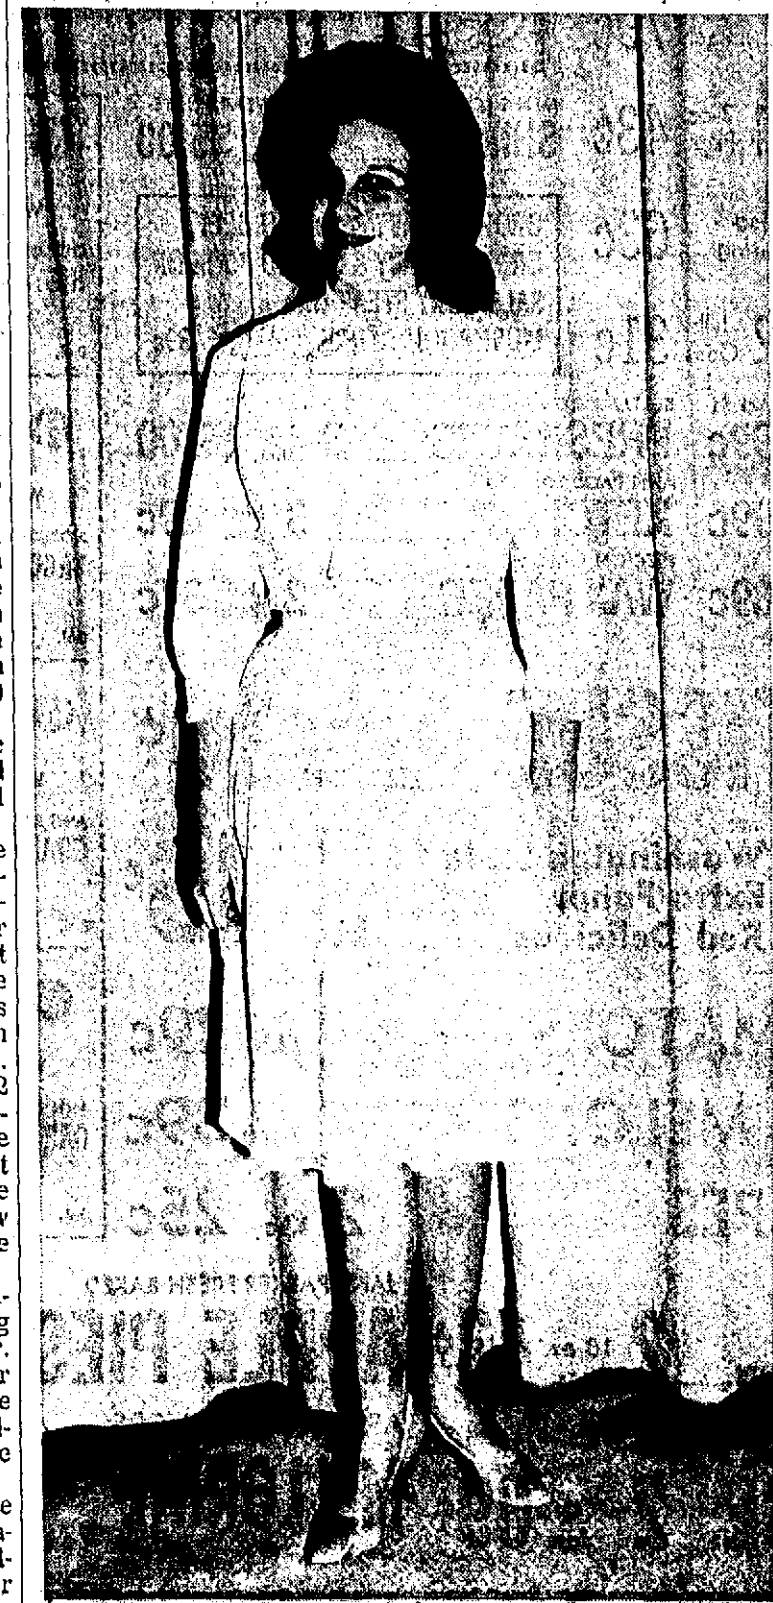

THESE GIRLS FROM GARLAND CITY took second place in the talent contest at Third District Livestock Show Tuesday night.

TAKING THIRD PLACE IN THE District Livestock Show talent contest was this trio from Hope.

Susan Turner, Juliana Fenwick and Peggy McCorkle.

CAMILLE BISHOP OF HOWARD COUNTY WAS THE top winner in the talent contest at the Third District Show.

the first time the Faubus forces have tried to organize through the precinct level.

"I don't know that it's necessary now, but we're asking Democrats to be Democrats," he said. "I believe in running a 'scared' campaign. I'm selfish about votes. I want them all for my man."

Faubus has estimated that Rockefeller will spend over $1 million on the campaign. He says his own expenses will be "less than $300,000."

Estimates notwithstanding, a lot of money is being spent. This led one political observer to remark:

"Whoever is elected governor will have a problem coping with the recession that should result when all these people go off campaign payrolls."

New Catholic Passion Play Is Startling

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH
MANILA (AP) — A startling passion play, reflecting efforts of the Roman Catholic Church to adapt itself to the modern era, was presented here recently.

"For the first time on a Philippine stage, and perhaps for the first time in the world, the character who kisses Christ in the garden, betraying him to his enemies, is a woman," says the Rev. James Reuter, an American Jesuit priest who has directed several religious television and radio plays in Manila. "God sweats blood in traditional fashion," says Father Reuter, "but in a night club, in the shadow of a chorus line."

The play was presented by St. Scholastica's College, one of the most conservative convent schools in the Philippines, the only predominantly Roman Catholic country in Asia.

Father Reuter, who also has a regular daily radio program, says: "There is a new approach to theology and to canon law — an effort to apply the ancient law of God as gently as possible to the needs of men. Everywhere the people answer the prayers of the priest, singing the ancient psalms in English, in the Tagalog dialect, in Chinese — to melodies composed in the 20th century."

Father Reuter says the change was sparked by the Vatican Ecumenical Council. In an article describing the play, Father Reuter said:

"In the courtyard of the Roman governor, a girl snatches the lash from the soldier, and scourges the bleeding back of Christ. A girl presses the crown of thorns into his brow. And on Calvary, instead of the soldiers rolling dice for the seamless robe, Christ looks down on a little group of women busily playing mah-jong."

"Satan stalks through this passion play, as Satan stalks through the world, but for the first time on a Philippine stage, Satan is a lovely young lady in an evening gown. As Satan says so simply in the play 'Women had much to do with the passion.'"

Father Reuter explains the devil could just as well be a woman as a man.

"Satan has no sex," he says. "Lucifer is neither man nor woman. Lucifer is an angel, all spirit. In the play, when the dying sinner screams 'Lucifer! the lovely young lady in the red evening gown smiles and says: 'Please. Lucifer is always associated with hooves and horns. Couldn't you call me something nicer? Something a little more modern? Let's say—Luz?'"

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Munsters" of CBS Thursday night joined "The Addams Family" of ABC to spoof horror movies.

We were, in this second show of the same theme this season, introduced to a bizarre family which lives in a ghoulish, cobweb-draped house. CBS' jolly little family consisted of grandpa, who looked like a portly Dracula and had a nasty habit of snapping at ladies, hands. Then there was Herman, the head of the house, who is the spitting image of Frankenstein's monster. His wife Lily is another of those witch-like creatures with long trailing hair and slinky gowns.

Finally there is a pretty blonde girl, Herman's niece, who looks okay but obviously is a bit retarded because she sees nothing strange about her relatives.

In the first show the Munster family was invited to a masquerade party. Of course, Herman won first prize and stalked off in a fury because he suspected he had been insulted.

It is a curious coincidence of course that two programs of such marked similarity reached our TV screens this season. Both, it seems, will have the same problem unless their writers can come up with some rather brilliant stuff. Their one joke will soon be threadbare, because how often can they have terrified outsiders meeting up with weird characters who think they are the normal ones. Maybe some night the Addamses should drop in on the Munsters or vice versa. Might be funny at that.

On the happier side Thursday night was "Bailey's of Balboa," also on CBS. After a shot shake-down cruise, this may prove to be a pleasant, warm comedy series.

Paul Ford who used to be the colonel of the old "Biko" series, lays Sam Bailey, owner of a chunky little charter fishing boat and a devout fisherman. I think "Bailey's of Balboa" is what the trade calls "a very commercial show" meaning that it has enough different

Orders New Trial for Manslaughter

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ordered a new trial today for Omar Jordan who was sentenced in Lincoln Circuit Court to six years for involuntary manslaughter in the accidental shooting of James Scott.

Jordan contended in an appeal that he was entitled to a new trial because the trial judge refused to instruct the jury on the law covering the defense of justifiable homicide.

Scott was fatally wounded Dec. 14, 1963, in a pool hall at Grady in which Jordan was a partner. Testimony at the trial indicated that Jordan pulled a pistol to defend himself against another man and that the gun accidentally fired and Scott was struck by the bullet.

Jordan originally was charged with second degree murder. The state contended that he was not actually engaged in defending himself at the time that the shot was accidentally fired.

Ingredients to be flexible in plot and appeal to a wide audience.

All three networks will have programs Sunday based on the Warren commission report of the Kennedy assassination. NBC will present an hour's special starting at 6:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time. ABC will have one at the same time but for 30 minutes. CBS' special will be the longest, from 5 to 7.

No Report From Spa on Gambling

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock Police Chief R. E. Brians said Tuesday that the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce had not come through with its "information about gambling in Pulaski County."

H. H. Hower, director of public information of the chamber — which backs the proposal to legalize gambling, said on Sept. 17 that gambling flourishes in Little Rock and Pulaski County.

He offered to "provide the proper authorities" with information about it "if the people of Little Rock are interested."

Hower's statement came after Brians spoke at an anti-gambling clinic sponsored by the Churches United Against Gambling (CUAG).

Hower, contacted in Hot Springs, said Tuesday, "I wouldn't care to go any further with it. I know what would happen. If the police chief wants the information he can get it."

On Sept. 17, Brians replied to Hower's statement that the arrests for gambling in Little Rock this year show that if police know about gambling "we will take action against it."

Says Campaign Well Organized

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus called the campaign of Republican Winthrop Rockefeller "the best organized political effort we have seen in this state" Saturday.

Faubus addressed 254 persons at a $10-a-plate campaign breakfast here. He said complacency on the part of Democrats is the biggest problem he has in opposing Rockefeller.

Faubus said that in spite of Rockefeller's denials, Rockefeller's campaign in Arkansas was organized by Texans who ran the campaign of Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

"We're going to have the heaviest registration and the biggest vote we've ever had. If we forget the disinterested voters, then we will forfeit about 100,000 votes," Faubus said.

Outdoor Writers Name Officials

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Hubert Thompson of Little Rock was elected president of the Arkansas Outdoor Writers Association here Sunday. Other new officers are John Houston of Little Rock, vice president; and Duffie Bryant of Batesville, secretary-treasurer.

Business Going Good, Report Shows

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a few sour notes mar the performance as the third quarter of the business year nears its finale.

The summer was better than usual on many counts. But even the most optimistic forecaster has to take note of some disturbing trends in the final weeks:

—The auto industry had better than usual sales — but also a labor pact that some fear might spread inflationary fires to other sectors of the economy. And the final days of the quarter were marred by walkouts at General Motors plants and a contract impasse.

—Housing starts in August fell 5 per cent below a year ago, while contracts for future residential building trailed the 1963 August by 11 per cent. For all types of construction, contracts were running 7 per cent behind a year ago.

—Business failures rose 7 per cent in August from July, an unusual trend.

—Machine tool orders, often a barometer, were the lowest since last November, off 15 per cent from July. But makers say the August trend was largely seasonal.

—New orders for durable goods dropped 9 per cent last month from their July record high.

—And there are 3,750 fewer retail stores today than a year ago, although that still leaves 1,853,530 in which Americans can shop.

But the good performance — rising personal incomes, and consumer spending, record industrial output, booming steel production and orders, adequate supply of loanable funds — outweighs the others in the view of most businessmen.

On this basis a majority of the Philadelphia meeting of the National Association of Business Economists agreed in a poll that the total national output of goods and services should average $652 billion in 1965, a gain of 4 per cent over the record pace this Gross National Product is setting this year.

And they forecast a 3 per cent rise in industrial production, and a 5 per cent increase in consumer spending.

But the economists do some hedging on these bets. They think the rate of advance in the GNP will be slower in late 1965 than in the early months. They see stability in industrial output after the middle of 1965. And they feel that the higher spending of consumers next year will be in face of a 1 to 2 per cent climb in consumer prices.

Backing up the economists are a generally bullish, if nervous stock market and the increasing number of corporations announcing expansion plans.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "That Was the Week That Was," after a three-month summer vacation, returned to NBC Tuesday night full of vigor, strong opinions and shooting wisecracks in all directions.

Chief target was politics. It seemed to this viewer that the young satirists made no effort to conceal their political sympathies. Except for a crack about President Johnson's fast automobile driving, the Democratic candidate had gentle treatment — and his running mate was not even named at all.

But a broad stream of vitriolic comment was aimed at his Republican opponent — plus a sarcastic commentary without any humor at all about vice-presidential candidate William E. Miller.

When it looked away from politics, the program galloped all over. It kidded the huge corps of television newsmen covering world trouble spots microphone in hand. It made merciless fun of smug exuberant parents who permit their teen-age children to drink. It had Phyllis Newman sing a grisly little song mourning a vacation spent taking snapshots abroad when there were such interesting possibilities at home — riots in Rochester, looting in New York, stabbings and muggings.

A commercial interruption of the live show was a paid political advertisement for the Democratic party after which "TW3 girl" Nancy Ames sang an announcement that the next couple of shows have been pre-empted for paid Republican broadcasts and suggesting, in doggerel, that the GOP in this way could keep the show off the air until after Election Day.

It is nice to have a free-wheeling, opinionated show which tries for satire and humorous comment, but one still wishes the writers would try harder for wit and humor and exert less effort in attempting to shock.

"Combat" on ABC is an awfully noisy show with all the shooting, but it is also a very well produced show and its scripts usually are above average. Tuesday night's show was a story about an assault on a German position in which three men were killed and of the recriminations later. It depicts war as a painful, exhausting dirty business, and the acting particularly that of star Vic Morrow, is valid and interesting.

Recommended tonight: "Green Mansions," NBC, 9-11 EDT — 1959 motion picture starring Audrey Hepburn and Anthony Perkins; "The Danny Kaye Show," CBS, 10-11 — Phil Silvers is the guest star.

10 Year Sentence
TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Leroy Callahan, 44, of De Queen, was sentenced Thursday to 10 years in prison on a second-degree murder charge he pleaded guilty to last year.

He was charged in the shooting of James Henry Wallace, 30, of Texarkana, who was slain here July 4, 1953.

David Roden, 43, of Hochatown, Okla., was convicted on a first-degree murder charge in the case, sentenced to life in prison, and has appealed. Clint pay-TV.

Possibly. But that presupposes millions of homes hooked up to a pay-TV system, and so far no one has found an economic way to achieve that.

And much of "Hamlet's" value would have been lost on the small screen. Most critics pointed out the technical imperfections of the process. With normal stage lighting, the sets were murky much of the time, the actors often indistinct.

Question Is Why Did He Kill Kennedy?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why? The great unanswered question in the report of the Warren Commission — which has just concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald killed President John F. Kennedy — is why he did it.

The seven-man commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, after almost 10 months of investigation and with the help of all the resources of government, admits it couldn't learn Oswald's reason for the assassination.

Since Oswald died two days after the assassination — killed by Jack Ruby — the commission also admits it can't even say honestly whether Oswald was insane.

So Oswald's motive will probably remain one of the most baffling enigmas of history, which would probably make Oswald happy if he knew it.

That's because the commission did offer this opinion: that Oswald's apparent desire "for a place in history" led the seven men "to believe that such concern is an important factor to consider in assessing possible motivation for the assassination."

Yet, when the commission's report — about 20 volumes of testimony, interviews and evidence — is all made public, Oswald will emerge as one of the shabbiest little men in history.

He was a liar. He was pretentious. He was a crybaby. And, if the truth were known, his attempts at murder may have been a perverted way of seeking his own destruction.

The commission raises this question about Oswald, who was "plagued all his life" by feelings of defeat and mediocrity: Did he really want to escape after committing a great crime?

Seven months before he killed the President, Oswald tried to assassinate former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker by shooting at him through the window of his home. He missed.

But before he went to Walker's house he left in his own home a notebook full of his plans for shooting the general, plus pictures of himself with a rifle and revolver.

If he had killed Walker and been captured, his home certainly would have been searched. Those notes would have been dreadfully incriminating.

The morning of the day on which he shot Kennedy he left $130 at home and took only $17.87 with him, certainly not enough to carry him very far if he wanted to escape from Dallas.

He had a neglected childhood — his father died before he was born and his mother for long stretches had to work, leaving him with friends or relatives or putting him in a home — but he had a sense of weapons and violence from childhood.

When he was 3 he threw a toy gun at a woman taking care of him. When he was 9 he chased his brother with a knife and threw it at him. At 12, the commission says, he had "fantasies about being all powerful and killing."

At 13 he drew a knife and threatened to use it on his sister-in-law. At 16 he talked of breaking into a store to steal a gun and said he would like to kill President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

After he joined the Marines he accidentally shot himself with a pistol he had speared into his locker against regulations. He was court-martialed. When he went to the Soviet Union at 20 and was refused citizenship, he cut his wrist. He beat his wife, hit his mother, tried to kill Walker and did kill Kennedy.

He criticized how the world was run, considering both communism and capitalism failures, but he was a failure in the jobs he held in the Soviet Union and the United States, and had trouble holding them. He was fired from more than one.

In the Soviet Union he was a metal worker but the foreman thought he was careless and lacked initiative. He quit two jobs in Texas within five months, one of them after one day. He was fired from two jobs because he couldn't make the grade.

He ridiculed others but lied endlessly about himself, giving false names, false information to employers, deceiving his wife, and even lying about the kind of job he held because he thought he should be doing a better one.

He tried to act the big man — with his killings — but he lied about the two deeds that will keep him remembered: the killing of Kennedy and a Dallas policeman, Officer J. D. Tippit.

He tried to act the self-sufficient male and resented charity for his family, but he accepted it. He was full of self-pity about his life and hard times but wouldn't work hard enough or learn enough to have a better life.

He was full of contradictions: he deserted the United States for the Soviet Union, then the Soviet Union for the United States. He posed as an anti-Castroite and four days later distributed pro-Castro leaflets.

He pretended to be a brain but spelled like a child. At 20 he claimed to have been studying communism and socialism but when asked to name the books he had read he came up with only one: "Nas Kapital" by Karl Marx.

And, of course, there is one question which will never be answered and which the Warren Commission didn't touch on: Did Oswald in his violent life ever kill anyone else?

Kidnaped French Children Found

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY
PARIS (AP) — Three French schoolchildren kidnaped last Monday were found safe today near Bordeaux. Interior Minister Roger Frey mobilized more than 100,000 police to hunt the kidnapers.

Frontier posts were put on double alert and police barriers were set up to check all vehicles. A watch was put on airports.

The children were found by the side of a road in southwest France. They told police a young man and a young woman called "Nicole" had let them out of a light blue car.

The three, Joel Biet and Patrick Guillon, both 5, and Patrick's sister Christine, 6, were pronounced in excellent health. They had not been mistreated, but medical officials said they were "covered with fleas."

A place called Rough and Ready served as county seat of Drew County until the site Monticello was chosen and laid out in 1850.
